

Domain decomposition and multilevel methods for some inverse problems

J. Zou

Department of Mathematics, Chinese University of Hong Kong, Hong Kong

`zou@math.cuhk.edu.hk`

Supported by Hong Kong RGC grants (Projects 404606 and 404407).

Joint work with

X.-C. Cai and S. Liu (University of Colorado, USA), and

J. Li (ETHZ, Switzerland).

We will address some of our recent efforts on DDM (domain decomposition methods) and multilevel methods for solving a class of nonlinear inverse problems arising from parameter identifications. Numerical difficulties and unique characteristics of inverse problems will be studied, DD and multilevel methods with special features are proposed to provide a stable and effective solver for the class of inverse problems.