

The Radon transform with finitely many angles

Speaker: Plamen Stefanov, Purdue University

Abstract: We study the Radon transform in the plane in parallel geometry possibly undersampled in the angular variable. We study resolution, aliasing artifacts, and edge recovery. We offer two points of view: (1) classical: data known for finitely many but fixed number of angles; and (2) asymptotic: when the angular step goes to zero.